

POLITICAL EXTREMISMS

During the Roaring Twenties came a time of many political problems. Immigration started to hit a rise and that was a problem for many Americans, no one agreed. The theory of evolution was being taught, and that led to a major problem for fundamentalists. Although African Americans earned all the rights that whites had, they were still being treated with disrespect. A major part of these political problems was the Red Scare. All these topics fall under the category of Political Extremists in the 1920's.

Antiimmigration came into place after the Sacco and Vanzetti case, this case was when two immigrants were accused of murder. Fundamentalists were people who had a literal interpretation of the bible, but then people came and taught the theory of evolution which led to an uproar upon the two beliefs. The Klu Klux Klan was a group that discriminated against Africans Americans although they had all the rights the whites had. One of the biggest parts of political extremists was the Red Scare, this was an intense fear of communism and other radical ideas. The Roaring Twenties had many political problems but it all led to the amazing time era.